DJD YOU KNOW...

The History of billiards is long and very rich. The game has been played by kings and commoners, presidents, mental patients, ladies, gentlemen, and hustlers alike. It evolved from a lawn game similar to the croquet played some-time during the 15th century in Northern Europe and probably in France. Play moved indoors to a wooden table with green cloth to simulate grass, and a simple border was placed around the edges. The balls were shoved, rather than struck, with wooden sticks called "maces." The term "billiard" is derived from French, either from the word "billart", one of the wooden sticks, or "bille", a ball.

The cue stick was developed in the late 1600's. When the ball lay near a rail, the mace was very inconvenient to use because of its large head. In such a case, the players would turn the mace around and use its handle to strike the ball. The handle was called a "queue" meaning "tail" from which we get the word "cue." For a long time only men were allowed to use the cue; women were forced to use the mace because it was felt they were more likely to rip the cloth with the shaper cue.

THIS IS THE 4TH WEEK OF PLAY

All unpaid players will be dropped from your roster after this week of play is entered.

Please make sure you pay all your membership fees this week. You have until the 7th week to make roster changes but anyone you add must be paid the week you add them from this point on. We also need complete information on all players which includes date of birth, address and phone number.

Don't forget you can also renew online if you prefer to use a credit card. This is also good for getting in your last minute payments.

QUESTION:

If four balls don't hit a rail on the first three attempts at breaking, does the break then go to the opposing team player?

ANSWER:

No. If the rack is struck, but the break does not qualify as legal, the balls are re-racked and re-broken by the same player. If the rack is struck, but the break does not qualify as legal but results in a scratch, the balls are re-racked and broken by the opposite player.
